Energy Efficiency Testing & Environmental Certification

3rd Party Certification Adds Independent Validation of Green Claims.

Environmental Certification from Intertek covers a wide range of materials, from HVAC, appliances, IT equipment and consumer electronics to building materials, furniture, lighting, and more. Our Green Leaf Certification provides proof that a product has been independently tested and found to conform to multiple, existing environmental regulations – such as RoHS, REACH and Eco Design requirements – and can achieve this via one mark rather than multiple marks.

Greenwashing Raises Concerns over Environmental Claims

Environmental product claims are coming under scrutiny by regulators and a growing source of distrust by consumers. Coined as “Greenwashing” — the dangerous marketing of environmentally friendly product attributes — advocacy groups and consumers are looking for the hard proof behind environmental claims.

Recent studies show that consumers continue to support companies and brands that demonstrate social and environmental responsibility and are increasingly looking for certification marks or labels on products to validate environmental credentials. Manufacturers and retail brands are under greater pressure to ensure products meet standards and have accurate test and analysis data to back up their claims.

From web pages, product packaging, in-store displays, to product advertising and literature, Intertek’s Green Leaf Mark is proof that a product has been independently tested and conforms to requirements. The Green Leaf Certification Label (sample shown below) provides immediate and easily recognizable information on product packaging to help consumers learn more about the green attributes of your product, and the specific claims that have been independently verified by Intertek.
