

Cosmetic Products: Export Certification and Regulatory Assistance

Your Challenges

In order to protect consumers, some governments require cosmetic products to have conformity and quality certificates in order to clear customs or are placed on the market.

In a world of constantly changing legislation, those involved in the cosmetics industry need to keep abreast of the latest regulatory requirements including registration, declaration, authorisation, notification and more.

As part of your export strategy, it is important to have a reliable partner who can help you place your cosmetics and fragrances on the market all over the world.
