Your Challenges

In today's competitive global economy, speed and simplicity in getting your products to market while ensuring they meet quality standards is the key to success. Uncertainties often accompany the quality inspection process, like how do you determine the optimal sample size, what is an acceptable quality level (AQL), which inspection protocol is appropriate to the market and what is the best way to format reports? Spending valuable time and resources trying to develop and maintain an inspection program can be time consuming and distract you from your core competencies and priorities.

In order to take control of your inspection process, you need to engage a knowledgeable inspection partner that can offer credible protocols, high quality work processes, standardized methods and cost effective inspections that offer simplicity and fast turnaround (TAT) times.
