Once these checks are completed the container will be sealed with Intertek seals as proof of compliance and an inspection report will be issued to you.

Container Unloading Supervision

As with container loading, you need the assurance that when your goods arrive they will be unloaded and handled correctly and arrive safely at their final destination.

During the unloading process an Intertek inspector will be present to ensure that your goods are handled with the due care and attention with which they were loaded. On arrival they check the:

- Quality and condition of your goods
- Quality and condition of packaging
- Adherence to correct goods unloading procedures
- Accuracy and correctness of all documentation

Container In-Service Verification

Intertek inspect containers to certify their sea-worthiness, issuing certificates that validate their usage for one year. Intertek also perform periodic statutory inspections to ensure the correct storage and safe transport of cargo.

Each of these services significantly reduces the risk associated with importing cargo giving you confidence that all your goods will arrive and in the best condition.
