

Supply chain security: training and development services

Helping you achieve excellence through training

“Our instructors are highly trained and qualified individuals.”

As world-leading Supply Chain Security consultants, Intertek Government Services have the expertise to advise and assist governments, airports, customs organisations, port authorities and businesses on protecting themselves from all supply chain security risks.

With this in mind, Intertek Government Services have a range of training and development programmes designed to meet the needs of organisations wishing to achieve excellence through their most valuable asset: their people.

Our courses cover a range of subjects and are recognised by organisations such as the UK Department for Transport and can be designed for staff at all levels. And as you would expect, our instructors are highly trained and qualified individuals in their fields of expertise.

Listed below are just some of the courses we are currently planning:

- Maritime Security Officer
- Company Security Officer
- Port Facility Security Officer
- Ships Security Officer
- ISO 28000, AEO and C-TPAT
- CCTV Operations and Management
- X-ray Image Interpreter Training
- Aviation Ground Security
