

LABEL VALIDATION SERVICES NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

SUPPORT FOR FOOD INDUSTRY

Due to the globalisation of markets, selling one product in several different countries has become common practice. Food label compliance around the world can be very challenging, with countries not covered by the same laws and regulations. In addition, the specifications associated with each product type needs to be considered. It is therefore essential to become compliant with all country-specific mandatory requirements right from the start for a targeted and yet legally compliant labeling.

Our service is focused towards businesses wishing to sell in multiple markets and supported by our network of experts in over 50 countries worldwide.

Our Service

We offer assistance with food labeling compliance for every product you sell within the global market.

- Regulatory Translation

Legally compliant translations of food relevant information, including compliance check of ingredients and additives, based on national and international requirements performed by local food law experts.

- Artwork Validation

Assessment and validation of food labeling according to national and international requirements, including, among others, legal name, ingredients, allergen labeling, nutrition declaration, best before date, storage instructions, information on net quantity, origin, font size, nutrition claims and further product specific requirements for different food products in the target countries.

- Further Services:

General consultancy services regarding specific questions on national and international food labeling requirements.

Comprehensive Support

As an ideal complement to our label validation services, we offer a great variety of other services to ensure the safety and quality of your products.

The food laboratories of Intertek offer a wide range of food testing services, such as nutritional analysis, microbiology tests, genetically modified organisms (GMO), authenticity, contaminants and allergens as well as sensory evaluation and shelf life studies.

Benefiting You

- A major advantage of our services is the fast, central coordination of multinational labeling requests by a team of German state certified food chemists.

- Our worldwide network of food law experts guarantees comprehensive knowledge on local requirements, which is essential in avoiding legislative pitfalls
- We ensure the legal conformity of the declaration of your products and thus promote the trust of your customers in you.
- You receive assistance and consultation regarding all your concerns in the field of legally compliant food labeling, as well as the opportunity to complete this with further services from our company with world-class reputation.
