GLOBALG.A.P.

Good Agricultural Practice

Producers and retailers must meet global standards and requirements to succeed on the global market.

If food safety and quality procedures like GlobalG.A.P. - Retailer Produce Working GroupG.A.P. are not understood, implemented, and embraced by all parties involved, not only is the safety of the food produced at risk, but also the reputation and brand value of the company behind it.

The entire food industry has evolved into a diverse network of multiple channels. Frequently, both the core operational structure and associated business processes related to food production and distribution fail to align properly.

GLOBALG.A.P. (Good Agricultural Practices) refers to an internationally recognised set of farm standards and offers guidance on sustainable production practices, animal welfare, and worker health and safety. Certification helps producers meet the demand for high quality, sustainable food and allows retailers and consumers to choose quality produce with confidence.
