Quantity and Quality:

Quantity and Quality Inspections help protect your brand and your company's reputation by minimising defective merchandise, customer complaints, non-compliant products, and late and short shipments.

It is imperative that consumer product manufacturers verify that the products manufactured, shipped and distributed under their brand name meet industry and government regulations or their own specific requirements. As an independent, third party inspection and testing company, Intertek can conduct a variety of on-site inspections to ensure that your brand, reputation and consumers are protected.

Specifically, Quantity and Quality Inspections help manufacturers:

- Ensure product conformity to standards prior to shipping
- Ensure correct quantities are being shipped
- Minimise the amount of defective merchandise
- Reduce customer complaints due to inferior products
- Detect merchandise containing non-standard or non-compliant components
- Eliminate late shipments
- Ensure Contractual Quantity and Quality Specifications as per Purchase Orders and Letters of Credit
